TOP SECRETCreation of Foreign Military Units Under Kersten Amendment

The Secretary of Defense has requested a definitive answer by October 4 from JCS re their position on the military feasibility of creating foreign military units, Godel reported. After this is received, the Secretary of Defense will make his decision about October 15. Kirk noted that the numbers of escapees who meet the qualifications are discouragingly few. Godel confirmed that the numbers presently available are limited and future expectations are poor. Godel said Kersten has been advised of these figures by Dulles, himself and others. Kersten has now come around to seeing some of the practical problems involved in his original idea, Godel believes. Wilson reports Kersten has said that the "Pentagon" feels that even one battalion of escapees would have a broad psychological impact. Godel noted that while some in Pentagon hold this view, it is not an official one.

REMARKS:

At the PSB luncheon on 13 November 1952 it was agreed that the subject of electro-magnetic warfare was very technical and belonged in the hands of other agencies of the Government rather than the PSB and no further action by that Board is currently contemplated.
